End of Season Blueberry & Blackberry Pruning

Berry Health Benefits, Marketing, and Consumer Preference Study Results

SEPTEMBER 2 • 3PM - 6PM EASTERN TIME

Presenters:

Dr. Reza Rafie
Extension Specialist

Dr. Rafat Siddiqui
Food Scientist

Dr. Chyer Kim
Food Scientist

Dr. Theresa Nartea
Extension Specialist

The participants in this workshop/field-day will learn about the end of the season pruning of blackberry and blueberry. The end of the season pruning of blackberry and blueberry is an important part of the berry crops management, it will reduce disease incidences and will improve the yield and fruit quality for the following year production. In this workshop, there will be four presentations about the marketing, health benefits of berry crops, planning for next year's production, and the results of a consumer preference study conducted at VSU will be shared with the participants.
